MINERS MAY APPEAL

The Spencer Bill Passes Both Houses.

THE "SCALPERS" GAIN A POINT

Several Important Amendments made to the Linder County Government Bill.

SACRAMENTO, February 26.—Several important amendments were made to the Linder county division, and the bill, as amended, was ordered printed and put on file for third reading. One amendment provides that a majority of voters and taxpayers in the district to be cut off must petition the governor for such action, and another provides that not more than 60 per cent of assessed valuation of any county can be taken off.

The old fight between farmers and hydraulic miners came up when Ford of Nevada, Plumas and Sierra, urged the passage of Spencer's bill, already passed by the assembly, which provides for an appeal to the supreme court in contempt arising from miners disregarding injunctions.

Aram of Sutter, Yolo and Yuba, led the fight against the bill, saying that all the old evils of hydraulic mining with slickens in the rivers would begin immediately after the passage of the bill, and would continue while appeals are pending.

Ford argued that the right of appeal was only just, and appealed for the passage of the bill in the name of justice and humanity.

Martin of Eldorado and Placer favored the bill, while Hart of Sacramento opposed it.

After a long and spirited debate the bill passed by a vote of 27 to 6, and now goes to the Governor for his signature.

Langford's joint resolution, asking congress to cede Goat Island to the state for use as a general railroad terminal, was made a special order for Friday next at 3.30 p.m.

The vote by which the bill providing for disestablishment of law libraries was refused passage was reconsidered, and the bill was passed.

The bill appropriating $42,000 for National Guard expenses went to a third reading.

Seawall's bill fixing the hours of labor in logging camps was made the special order for Wednesday at 4 p.m.

The senate committee on military affairs agreed tonight to report a compromise National Guard bill authorizing three brigades made up of a total of sixty-nine companies of which sixty shall be infantry or artillery and five a naval battalion.

The federal relations committee of the senate decided to report favorably on a joint resolution inviting the national conventions to meet here in 1896.

The senate judiciary committee tonight considered the Torrens land commission bill and agreed to report on it favorably.

IN THE ASSEMBLY.

SACRAMENTO, February 26.—McCowan's bill, already passed the senate, to aid the dairy industry by prohibiting frauds in butter and cheese and establishing a state diary bureau was passed after a spirited debate. McKelvey of Orange gave notice of reconsideration.

Belshaw of Contra Costa, who voted no, explained that he did so only because he was opposed to increasing the number of state commissions.

A third superior judge for Sacramento county was provided for by passing Senator Hart's bill making such provision. Two Sacramento assemblymen—Butler and Hatfield—voted against the bill.

Orr's bill relating to the [illegible]en of judgments of federal courts was passed.

A bill providing that no colleges and seminaries should be incorporated unless they possessed $250,000 capital was amended so as not to apply to any existing institutions and was ordered printed.

The bill making an appropriation to repair the Stockton asylum was passed.

Then came the fight of the session on the so called "scalper's" bill, which prohibits dealing in railroad tickets by any but authorized agents, and fixes high penalty for any one using such tickets. The bill is in the interest of railroad companies and against the ticket scalpers. When it came up for third reading Thomas of Nevada championed it, but few supporters came to his aid, and from the first the sentiment of the assembly seemed against the bill, although it had the senate's indorsement. Several members were noticed to quietly retire as the debate grew hot, and avoided voting on the issue.

Barker of Santa Barbara, a Populist, amended fixing the minimum penalty for violation of the law at $200, and requiring that half the fine go to the informer. Only the first half of the amendment was carried, Thomas protesting, saying even that would kill the bill.

Osborn of Santa Cruz offered an amendment striking out the vital part of the bill, but this was lost by a vote of 31 to 41.

Bledsoe offered an amendment providing that the law "shall not prohibit any person who has purchased a ticket from any authorized agent with bona-fide intention of traveling on it from selling or giving it to any other person."

Osborn, Dodge of Alameda and Waymire of Los Angeles made vigorous speeches for the amendment and against the bill. They were roundly applauded, and the vote on the amendment, being taken, resulted in 43 ayes against 20 nays. Applause and confusion followed the announcement of the result. Thomas changed his vote from no to aye, and gave notice of reconsideration. The feeling is that the Bledsoe amendment nullifies the bill. It was ordered printed, and another fight is expected when the matter comes up for reconsideration.

San Francisco Races.

California Eggs Sent East.

SACRAMENTO, February 26.—Wood, Curtis & Co. of this city today dispatched a full carload of eggs for the east. Eggs are now plentiful and cheap, while they are scarce and dear in the east.

Western Union Appeal Dismissed.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 26.—The United States court of appeals today dismissed the appeal of the Western Union Telegraph Company taken in the decision of Judge Ross, district judge for the southern district of California in favor of the Postal Telegraph Company. Under the decision of Judge Ross the Postal Company was given the right to build its lines on the right of way of the Atlantic & Pacific Company in California. The Western Union claimed an exclusive right to maintain its telegraph lines on the right of way in question, but the dismissal of its appeal leaves Judge Ross' decision final.

Reform Craze Strikes Stockton.

STOCKTON, February 26.—The Lexow or municipal reform craze has struck Stockton and tonight a meeting was held at the Presbyterian church, the object being to express sympathy for the efforts of the San Francisco reform organization and the other supporters of the Waymire bill. Speeches were made by several divines and a telegram offering moral support will be sent to the San Francisco committee tomorrow.

Not Cutting Rates.

DALLAS, Tex., February 26.—The officials of the Texas Pacific railroad deny the charge of the Atchison that they have been cutting rates on business from California.

COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN THE CONSTITUTION.

Creation of an Upper and Lower Council—Election of Officers.

WASHINGTON, February 26.—The annual session of the national council of women was held today. The election of officers for the ensuing year took place and a number of important changes in the constitution of the council were adopted, the principal change being the creation of an upper and lower council. The upper branch will be composed of the delegate and president of each of the national associations and the presidents of state councils and the chairman of the standing committees.

The lower council will consist of delegates of state councils and the president and delegate of the local councils. All national matters will be passed upon in the upper house and the lower branch will transact local business.

The new officers are: President, Mary Low Dickinson of New York, who is also president of the national organization of King's Daughters; vice president at large, Anna B. Shaw of Philadelphia; corresponding secretary, Louise B. Arnum Robbins of Michigan; first recording secretary, Emeline Burlingame Cheney of Maine; second recording secretary, Mrs. Helen Finley Bristol of Quincy, Ill.; treasurer, Anna J. Bailey of Maine.

Reports of organized work in the municipality occupied the afternoon session.

Gertrude Stevens Levitt, president of the Portland Council of Women, said her organization comprised fourteen of the most influential organizations in the city and that its work this season is two fold, viz.: the election of women on the school boards, so far denied them, and to urge legislation giving mothers joint authority with the care and custody of minor children.

Coal Company Incorporated.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 26.—The San Francisco and San Joaquin Coal Company, with a capital stock of $5,000,000, has filed articles of incorporation. The directors are James Treadwell, Henry Williams, John W. Coleman, J. D. Fry, J. C. Johnson, R. D. Fry and H. A. Williams. Each director has subscribed to $1000 worth of stock. The new company is formed to do a general coal mining business in this state, and particularly to develop the coal fields of Alameda and San Joaquin counties.

Stein Pass Hold-up.

TUCSON, February 26.—There were no new developments today in the matter of the hold-up at Stein Pass last night. The robbers have taken to the mountains and a posse is in hot pursuit. It is a wild course, and it is doubtful if the capture of the bandits will be effected. It was at Stein Pass in 1888 that the overland train was held up by four or five bandits, who got about $40,000. They were followed into Mexico and killed by a posse.

Brady Talking Too Much.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., February 26.—Champion James Corbett, in an interview tonight, said his manager, William Brady, was talking too much. "I see," he continued, "that he allows I can down Fitzsimmons in six rounds. Now, to be candid, I do not believe I can do that. I may defeat him in twenty rounds or less, but I don't say I can knock him out in six rounds. I want Fitzsimmons to put up every dollar that he agreed to."

Robert Haight & Co. Assign.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 23.—Robert Haight & Co. of No. 223 Front street have made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. Their affairs have been placed in the hands of the board of trade. The exact amount of the liabilities are not known. The cause of the failure is hard times. Insolvency proceedings in all probability will begin tomorrow. The principal creditors are farmers and dairy produce men.

Little Chance for the Reilly Bill.

WASHINGTON, February 26.—There seems to be little prospect that any more attempts at Pacific railway legislation will be made in this congress. Supporters of the bill in the house went to the senate to make a canvass of its chances and were told by Senator White of California that half a dozen senators had resolved to see to it that no legislation on the lines of the Reilly bill should pass the senate.

Anti-Gambling Law in Montana.

HELENA, Mont., February 26.—Both houses of the legislature have passed a stringent anti-gambling law. Gambling has been a legalized industry heretofore.

DISORDER AND RIOT

Attend Ex-Priest Slattery's Attempt to Lecture.

THE MILITIA CALLED OUT

All the Windows in the Hall Broken. Fully 5000 People in the Mob.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 26.—This has been the most exciting night in the history of Savannah. For five hours the city has trembled on the verge of riots. The entire military force of the city except the artillery has been on duty. There are ten infantry companies and the Georgia Huzzars, the latter being dismounted. A mob estimated at from 3000 to 5000, the greatest part being Catholics, has challenged their forbearance to the extreme. But for the coolness of Mayor Meyers and the officers commanding the troops, bl od might have been shed. Bayonet charges were made several times to clear the streets, but the mob which had gathered about Masonic Temple, one of the prominent buildings of the city and situated in the heart of Savannah, stubbornly refused to retire.

For three days it had been apparent that trouble was brewing. The city had been liberally placarded with notices that ex-Priest Slattery and his wife, described as an ex-nun, would lecture here on Catholicism. Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians took steps to prevent their appearance here. Petitions were circulated asking Mayor Meyers to refuse permission to the ex-priest to hold his lectures. The petition said that if Slattery were allowed to speak there would be disorder and riot. About 500 persons signed the petition. When it was presented to the Mayor by a committee of 100 Catholics, including the presidents of two divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, he handed them a written opinion of the corporation attorney to the effect that he, as mayor, had no power to stop the right of speech guaranteed by the constitution of the United States. He said there could be no disorder or trouble if those who were offended by Slattery's remarks were to stay away from his lecture. He urged all to do so. Mayor Meyers also asked the committee to advise all Catholics to stay away from the lecture. "I can't stop this man from lecturing," said the Mayor, who is a Hebrew, "but I can prevent disorder, and will do so. If the police are not sufficient to do so, the military will be appealed to. Riot will not be tolerated."

The committee stated it was their desire to avoid trouble, and that they would use their influence in that direction. They did so, but their efforts utterly failed. All of today it had been rumored that mobs were coming from different sections of the city, and that Slattery would be killed. The fact that he was to put on the garb of a priest in the course of his lecture spread like wildfire, and raised an intense feeling among Catholics.

Mayor Meyers issued instructions to Chief McDermott to have all the available police on hand at Masonic temple. Fifteen policemen were stationed inside the hall, and thirty others were massed in front. By 7 o'clock several hundred people had collected. When Slattery arrived, the mob had not assumed large enough proportions to cope with the police. By 9 o'clock a howling mob of over 1,500 surrounded the hall. In the hall was an audience of about 400, including a number of ladies.

The lecturer had hardly commenced before brickbats and cobblestones began to rain on the windows. The police had closed all the heavy inside shutters, thus saving the audience from injury, only two or three being injured by falling glass. The rest of the police force was called out and fifty men were soon in front of the hall. The mob made rushes to secure an entrance, but were driven back by force. Before 8 o'clock the mob had grown to between 3000 and 4000. Window after window was crashed amid cries of "Kill him," "Down with Slattery."

Chief McDermott summoned the mayor. The meeting closed at 9.30. Up stairs a number of members of secret organizations, who had cheered Slattery's declaration that he belonged to them, had gathered around the expriest to defend him as he left the hall. A number, it was evident, had come in anticipation of trouble. As the expriest was about to leave the hall with his friends the crowd stopped them and refused to allow anyone to go down stairs. Outside Mayor Meyers and Colonel Gerrard were in consultation. The mob hissed at the police and hooted at their orders to disperse.

"Bring on your military," some of the leaders shouted; "they can't save Slattery."

The Georgia Huzzars dismounted, under command of Major Mildred, were the first to respond. The organization is composed of 300 men in all. The mob evidently believed that this was all it was intended to bring out, and laughed at them as they drew up in front of the hall. Soon after, other military companies of the Savannah volunteer guards, under command of Colonel Williams, were marched up in front of the hall.

In the hall the audience was still penned up. Some of the women were crying, and those who ventured to glance out at the risk of a broken head, saw the mob and the long lines of artillery in all directions, and found nothing to encourage them. The military was deployed so as to divert the mob back.

Captain Dillon, one of the most prominent Catholics of the city, tendered his services as peacemaker. He brought Vicar General Cafferty, who has charge of the diocese in the absence of Bishop Becker, to the scene of trouble. The vicar general addressed a portion of the mob.

"This man Slattery," said he, "can do your church no harm. You are bringing disgrace upon your religion by your conduct here tonight. It can meet with nothing but condemnation. I plead with you to disperse and go home. Do not render it necessary to shed blood here tonight." A few of those he addressed shook the Vicar General by the hand and left, but the majority stood still.

Major Mildred and others urged the mob to disperse, but to no purpose. With a double line of soldiers a block was formed, and while the rest of the military kept the crowd back, nearly all of the audience passed out of the hall amid hisses.

Slattery and his wife and a few men remained in the hall. Colonel W. W. Cosgen, of the West Georgia cavalry, informed Slattery's wife that it was his intention to leave the First regiment and the Huzzars to guard the hall while the Guards battalion escorted Slattery to the Pulaski house. It was some time before she would consent to leave her husband. She was assured that under no circumstances would the mob be allowed to harm him. The Guards then banked around the door of the hall, and Slattery was brought down. As he came out with the police and the mayor, there was a howling mob, but other military, charging, pushed it back in all directions. Slattery was placed in the center of the military, and, headed by a detachment of mounted police and with foot police on the sides and four companies of infantry, amid hisses and jeers marched to his hotel.

At the hotel a mob of 500 or 600 gathered. The military made a solid mass in front of the entrance and Slattery walked in. Every door to the hotel was locked and guarded. At Masonic hall the other seven companies remained as a guard for Mrs. Slattery and to prevent further riot. Mrs. Slattery was placed in a carriage later in the night and with a strong force of police was brought to the hotel. The military was still on duty at midnight. Mrs. Slattery is booked for a lecture tomorrow afternoon and Slattery for one tomorrow night.

Threats are made tonight that they will be driven out of the city tomorrow. Prominent Catholics and the priest are using their influence to quiet the riotous element.

Several men were so badly injured that they had to be sent home. Several of the military men were wounded by being struck by rocks. Slattery's manager was knocked senseless with a sand-bag. At 2 a.m. a large crowd of police were still at the hotel.

DOLPH'S DEFEAT.

A CATHOLIC ORGAN CHARGES IT TO THE A. P. A.

Reasons Why Two of His Supporters Bolted Their Pledges and the Caucus.

PORTLAND, February 26.—The Catholic Sentinel, the official organ of the Catholic church in the northwest, has the following:

"The defeat of J. N. Dolph for a third term as United States senator is directly due to the A.P.A. It is no secret that, although the senator was apparently short of the election, there were two votes that would go to him whenever that should be sufficient to elect. He was, in fact, within two votes of election.

"Had Messrs. Gole and Burke, members of the house from Multnomah county, voted for him, as they were pledged to do, both before their nomination and afterwards by their entering their party caucus, Mr. Dolph would have been elected. The reason these men bolted their ante-election pledges and their party caucus obligation is to be found in the fact that they are members of the A.P.A. This society obligates its members, directly or indirectly, to vote for no man for office who votes for money for sectarian Indian schools, and by sectarian, the society means Catholic."

A Boy Severely Burned.

SAN JOSE, February 26.—Antone, the 5-year-old son of Manuel Correa of Santa Clara, was terribly burned about 1 o'clock this afternoon. The boy had a cigarette and as he was lighting it he set fire to a bunch of brown paper he had hidden under his vest. This set his clothing ablaze and his agonizing cries attracted the attention of his mother who was at work in the house. She rushed out and tore the burning clothing from the boy and in doing so severely burned her hands. The boy's recovery is doubtful.

Mexican Man-of-War Overdue.

NEW ORLEANS, February 26.—The Mexican man-of-war La Libertad sailed from Vera Cruz February 9th for New Orleans to be repaired. She is now more than ten days overdue and may have foundered in the Gulf during the heavy storm. Her crew consisted of fifty officers and men.

Republican National League.

CHICAGO, February 26. — President Tracey, of the Republican national league, has called a special meeting for the league to meet in Washington Saturday, March 2d, to prepare for the national convention in Cleveland, Ohio, June 19th next.

No Atrocities at Wei-Hai-Wei.

LONDON, February 26.—A dispatch to the Times from Che Foo states that at the capture of Wei-Hai-Wei the Japanese did little shooting. No atrocities were committed.

CANDIDATES FOR WHITTIER

Willie Grady and Porter Solomon Arrested for Burglary.

Policeman Russell yesterday arrested Willie Grady and Porter Solomon for burglarizing Bostick & Wakefield's grocery store on the corner of Fresno and K streets, night before last. The officers are looking for two other boys who were in complicity with the two who were arrested.

When the proprietors came down to open up their store yesterday morning they were surprised to find one of the panes of a front window smashed in, and about $20 worth of cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, etc., gone from the store. Officer Russell was notified, and he quickly found a clew which led to the arrest of the boys. They had been seen loitering around the store the evening before, and suspicion was at once directed towards them.

Grady, who is about 14 years old, was at school at the K-street school house when arrested. He broke down and told the officer where considerable of the tobacco had been hidden. Some was found under Solomon's house, some under the Baptist church and some under the Presbyterian church. About three-fourths of the entire amount stolen was recovered. The two boys who are wanted are known to the authorities.

Three of the boys stood guard outside while the fourth entered the store.

The Grady boy has been troubling the authorities for a long time. He has several times been found in unusual places at late hours of the night. The Solomon boy is about 15 years old and is a cripple. One of his legs was cut off by having a railroad car run over it while the boy was jumping on for a ride. This is not the first time he has been behind the bars.

THE PARIS EMBARGO

Due to the Differential Duty on Sugar.

STATEMENT OF AN EXPORTER

No Truth in the Talk About Improper Condition of the Cattle Shipped.

CHICAGO, February 26.—Nelson Morris, who controls the largest part of the export trade in cattle and beef products from this city, said today:

"Three months ago I had a proposition from the French minister of agriculture offering to continue to receive our cattle if the United States would take off the differential duty on sugar. I was asked to bring this before the government. I went myself to Washington and had Mr. Dana there for some time, but the government paid no attention whatever. The agreement I had with the French government was to expire March 1st. I see they have already terminated it in view of the impossibility of accomplishing anything more.

"There is no truth whatever in any of this talk about improper condition of the cattle shipped. There has not been one animal rejected in three years by any foreign country on the ground of ill health, not since 1892, when the Rusk agreement went into effect. France has never questioned any, nor Germany up to six weeks ago, when it refused one small shipment of Texas cattle on the false pretense of Texas fever. Not since 1892 has it rejected a pork product.

"The prohibitions now maintained do not include canned goods, but ways are being found to keep these out also. A week ago last Saturday a duty was laid by Germany on all the canned goods. These duties have not yet been made public, but have been brought to notice by my German agents. France, too, will accomplish this same thing, but in another way. There they use little of the canned goods except for the soldiers. I have a contract with the government to supply them, which expires next July."

HURON NEWS.

Prospects of Unusually Good Crops This Year.

N. L. Palmer of Huron was in the county seat yesterday. Mr. Palmer reports that prospects were never better for Huron. The crops are looking in exceptionally fine condition, although the acreage sowed is not quite as large as it has generally been for the past few years, but it looks much better.

In the Sinks of Posa, about one-half to four miles northwest of Huron, there are about 12,000 acres of wheat and barley. This has been flooded three or four times by the flood from the Coast Range. The farmers have dammed the creek down which the water comes, and turned it off to the south and east of town on what is called the Plains. The sinks do not need any more water, but the country east and south of Huron will require more floods or rain to insure good crops. There are about 6000 acres sowed on the plains.

With the ordinary spring rains ten to fifteen sacks to the acre will be harvested in the Sinks.

The sheep feed in the Huron country is very fine. With a few light rains in March, there will be good sheep feed all summer, with the abundant stubble which will be left after the harvest. The sheepmen will not have to take their sheep to the mountains.

It is estimated that fifteen combined harvesters will be used to harvest the season's crop. As twenty-six to thirty horses are used on each machine, there will be quite a demand for horses.

Some of the most hopeful West Siders think that the new valley railroad will be put through the west side country.

BY HIS OWN HANDS.

E. Hugues, a Frenchman, Ends His Existence.

Last evening about 7 o'clock E. Hagues, a Frenchman about 45 years old, was found dead in his room in a lodging house on K street near Ventura. A deep wound inflicted with a razor on the right side of his throat revealed the cause of his death.

The coroner's office was notified and Undertaker Hall took the body in charge, and Coroner Long made an examination of Hagues' belongings. Nothing was found which would throw any light upon the cause of the deed.

Night before last, at 8 o'clock Hugues went into his room and locked the door. He was not seen alive since. As he did not appear all day yesterday, it was thought that something must be wrong. An entrance was effected through an outside window, and an investigation made.

He was lying on the bed, where he evidently had thrown himself after inflicting the fatal wound. The razor was near at hand.

He had $145 on deposit in a bank of Fresno, and had some small change in his pockets. He was a laborer.

Of Interest to Singers.

The vocalists of Fresno are respectfully requested to meet at the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening at 7.30. Much has been said and written on the question, "Is Fresno a musical city?" and we believe it has been decided that it is. Granted so much, the next question is, what are the musicians doing? and the only answer at present is, nothing.

The meeting on Thursday is called in order to make a beginning. It is proposed to rehearse a number of choruses, etc., with the view of giving a sacred concert on Good Friday, which will be in about six weeks. Every singer in the city and neighborhood should be present. If every one will make an individual effort, a chorus of 75 to 100 can be obtained. A further proposition is to continue the rehearsals, taking up for practice Handel's "Messiah," or some other oratorio of the great masters. There is no music so grand and none so good for practice as the noble choruses found in the oratorios and anthems of the great composers past and present.

A HARD PROBLEM.

A new county government act may be properly classed among the legislation most needed at the hands of the present legislature, but it now seems doubtful if a bill can be passed. The difficulty to be overcome is the wide difference of opinion existing among representatives—a difference which seems well nigh impossible to reconcile. This has been the obstacle encountered in framing a comprehensive county government act, and always will be. Saying nothing of the different theories of county government, which are nearly as numerous as the members of the legislature, very few legislators can even agree upon the salary lists. This is partly due to difference in volume of business transacted in counties of like population, and to the extreme opinions of the members themselves.

The representative from one county, for instance, will tenaciously hold the opinion that salaries should be sufficiently liberal to induce men who are capable of earning a good salary in private life to accept a public office, while the honorable gentleman from a neighboring county will hold just as firmly that county officials ought to work for "going wages," and that hard times and lack of employment have forced wages down to a very low figure. The difficulty of reaching an agreement under these circumstances is obvious, and hence the slim prospect that desirable legislation will be secured.

The bill reported, fixing lump-sum salaries for conducting the offices, is not favorably received, many people who are earnestly in favor of retrenchment believing that the method will prove to be unsatisfactory if adopted. The prospects of getting out of the muddle are not very encouraging.

TIME OF LEGISLATURES.

The Tulare Register, the editor of which paper has passed some time in Sacramento this winter, says that the honest members of the legislature—who are the majority—are handicapped by the fact that they have separate interests and are divided in purpose, while the dishonest members—a minority—are united in their adhesion to anything in which "boodle" figures. In the expression of this opinion we believe that the Register is right, and—the more's the pity—it is difficult to discover or suggest a remedy for the trouble.

With another of the Register's conclusions, however, we are compelled to disagree. That paper is of the opinion that much of the difficulty is due to lack of time, and it therefore makes an appeal for 100-day sessions of the legislature. Judging the legislative bodies merely by their own actions, it is fair to presume that they are not troubled by lack of time. They have been in session fifty days, and of that time a week has been devoted to adjournments, once for a ball and again because George Washington was born. There was good reason for just one day's adjournment of the entire week.

If an individual were to devote one-seventh of his time (aside from Sundays) to vacations, and were then to complain of lack of time in which to do his work, he might justly be advised that if he would give more time to business and less to rest he would not be apt to notice the difficulty so much. So of the legislature, when the complaint is made that it lacks time for its work, the ready response comes: Let it use such time as it has before it asks for more.

As far as the popular opinion of the matter goes—if that counts—it may be said that it was pretty thoroughly expressed in the vote of last November on the constitutional amendment. This is an opinion that is subject to reversal, but it is not likely to be reversed while the legislators can find time for adjournments during 60-day sessions.

A LIBEL bill which has been introduced in the state senate and assembly will be apt to receive the approval of the newspapers of the state. It provides that a fair report of a charge or verified complaint may be published without libel. The justice of such a law is manifest. Without it, a newspaper that might publish the fact that some notorious villain had been legally charged with the commission of a crime would be subject to such punishment as court or jury might award. A most odious offense might have been committed, and it might be to the direct interest and welfare of the community to know all the circumstances, yet if a paper published the facts as sworn to it would do so at its peril. Under the present law, as interpreted by Judge Catlin of Sacramento, the Bee of that city was fined $500 for publishing a verified statement charging a person with crime. Such a law really operates against the welfare of the people by compelling the suppression of facts which should be known in order that the public, being warned against villains and villainy, may be forearmed. The bill should pass.

THE hybrid ticket is a good deal of a daisy, to be sure—one of those speckled, variegated flowers whose parentage is so mixed up that it can be traced back to a Dutch cabbage or a mint julep, just as you like it.

THE Sacramento Record-Union, which has long been recognized as among the leading papers of the state, has entered on the twenty-fourth year of its existence.

WHEN W. D. Grady, B. T. Alford and Judge Graham come out for reform, things do begin to look beaming for the star-eyed goddess.

THE Visalia Times, one of the best small daily papers in the state, has started on its seventh volume.

THE VALLEY ROAD.

The San Francisco and San Joaquin Railroad—the name by which the competing road will be known—has been formally incorporated, and the first step of the undertaking has been fairly taken. The rapidity with which the enterprise has grown from a vague and indefinite dream to a point where millions of dollars are at its disposal, is a sufficient guarantee that the work will be continued with equal vigor. Stockton stands ready to contribute $100,000, and anybody who is acquainted with public sentiment in the valley knows that there is no community which will not do anything within reason to assist the enterprise. It is now expected that the class of citizens who cannot take large blocks of stock will invest in small amounts. On this subject the San Francisco Call says editorially:

The time has now come when the great mass of citizens of ordinary means can come forward and assist in the work. It has been the intention of the promoters from the start to make it a people's railroad built largely by popular subscription, with all the stock owned in California. Had they desired to construct a road for their own advantage, they could readily have done so. Mr. Spreckels alone could have furnished capital enough to put the road on a solid footing, and then sold bonds for money sufficient to complete it, if he had desired to make it a speculation for individual gain. That, however, was not his aim nor was it that of his colleagues. They have recognized that the greater benefits of the road will be for San Francisco and the state, and they have therefore devised its construction on a plan that, by enabling a large number of people to become interested in it as stockholders, would prevent it from falling under the control of a clique or entering into a pool with the Southern Pacific. From this time forth until the full amount of money needed has been raised, small subscribers should come to the front. The investment is about as safe as any that can be found. The interest of every stockholder will be carefully guarded. There is no chance for a corporation within the corporation to enrich its members by looting the larger corporation and wasting the money of the stockholders.

In addition to individual contributions it will of course be necessary for cities, towns and villages to do much. Speaking abstractly, it is safe to say that Fresno will do anything that will be expected of her; speaking concretely, just what are you going to do about it, citizens?

AT a joint conference of the senate and assembly committees on agriculture it was decided to favor continuing both state and district fairs, but with half the appropriation allowed for the last two years. Such as state and district fairs are they had better be dead. Generally speaking, they have become little more than horse-racing exhibitions to which the encouragement of agriculture and agricultural displays bears about the same relation as a sideshow to a circus. To the development of this sort of thing the taxpayers' money has been devoted for years, and it is time that this expensive play at encouraging agriculture were ended. Ask the average farmer if he considers himself in any way benefited by the official horse races and their sideshow, and you will be apt to find that he does not. After the appropriation has been cut down one-half it will lack the other half of being cut enough.

RANDOM REMARKS.

Put away the mighty bonnet
That our Ethel used to wear,
With nine yards of feathers on it,
Towering o'er her golden hair;
Yet there comes a thought Elysian,
While for her big hat she grieves;
She can block some duffer's vision
By her great, eternal sleeves.

John L. Sullivan is again dr—now, hold on, hold on; you guessed wrong, and should not have interrupted. We were merely about to remark that he is again draining his exchequer in an attempt to keep his dramatic company on its feet. Nobody said "drunk"; there are things that may be taken for granted.

Senator Hart has introduced a bill appropriating $25,000 to ventilate the capitol building. This is evidently another insidious attack on the "Well." At any rate, it is popularly supposed that that is the particular part of the capitol building that needs "ventilating." Probably Senator Hart can prevail on Assemblyman Bledsoe to co-operate with him in his heroic purpose.

It is said that a fatal disease has seized upon the Prince of Wales. It may be, however, that he is merely discouraged with waiting. It must be admitted that his mother, the estimable Dutch lady who is queen of England, has not given him much of a show to demonstrate what he would be as a royal figurehead, and of course it is naturally trying to him to keep waiting, without anything turning up. If the Prince really is not feeling well it would perhaps do him good to take a little useful exercise. Sawing wood, for instance, opens the pores and strengthens the muscles.

Have the legislators considered the advisability of passing an anti-cook-book law to take its place on the proud pinnacle of fame alongside the death-to-big-hats statute? Every married man knows what a home destroyer and pulverizer is the modern cook-book. He has taken his wife from a home of luxury, and she doesn't know much about cooking, but she is willing to try, with the valuable assistance of a large cook-book with a green linoleum cover, for which she pays $1.75. The man goes home tired and hungry, and the trouble begins. The potatoes are all right except that the book, being calculated for a large seaside hotel, gives instructions for cooking half a sack at once, and the poor little woman has faithfully followed directions. Of course when potatoes are brought on in a tub it naturally cloys a man's appetite for that edible. The dumplings are good—for bullets, and when you ask your wife if liver pills go with the dessert she weeps and says she made them just as the cook-book directed. Naturally a man is surprised, because he doesn't know how tired the poor girl is and wasn't expecting tears. The pie—but these sacred domestic scenes are best not entered into too deeply; only, the cook-book said so again. This great, broad land of ours, kissed by sunbeams and bathed in life-giving showers, is dotted with homes ruined and desolated by the devastating cook-book. Out of this grows much of the divorce crop, although we suspect it not. An anti-cook-book law would naturally be a little twin sister to the anti-big-hat statute.

INHUMANITY OF THE LAW.

An Englishman Driven to Death by Harsh Legal Machinery.

I make no apology for giving prominence above events of so called importance to a simple little story, which I have no doubt will arouse emotions in American hearts that it has failed to excite in this country. Its significance indeed lies in the fact that it formed the subject of a small newspaper paragraph here without attracting any public interest. It is merely a record of the operation of the inexorable machinery of the English law as applied to an obscure individual named Henry Grainger, living in Sunderland.

Mr. Grainger had a large family and had been out of work for several months. Privation had undermined his health, and the household had become destitute. Then the law stepped in and summoned the unfortunate father before a magistrate for failing to send his children to school. He pleaded that he was unable to clothe and feed them so that they could appear in public. The wise judge ordered the father to pay a fine of a few shillings. The unhappy man explained that he had not a penny. Outraged law committed him to the county jail for three days. He was duly conveyed to prison at Durham, and when his term had expired was turned, penniless and infirm, into the bitter cold, driving storm. He tried to walk to his home, 14 miles away, managed to get half the distance and then crawled at night into an empty limekiln for shelter. Somebody happened to find him there in the morning half frozen and almost dead. The law again supplied him with a conveyance to the workhouse and probably would have done more for him but he was ungrateful enough to die as soon as he reached its sheltering doors. His death had been rather irregular, so the law furnished a jury which carefully considered his fate.

If there had been the slightest legal responsibility for his death on the part of any person or authority the jury would not have failed to express its condemnation, for English coroners' juries are always severe in dealing with any illegality. It is quite plain that not a whit of legal blame attached to anybody, so the verdict was, "Death from exposure." That is all, save perhaps that next week, if the hungry orphans still fail to attend school, the law may step in and deal precisely in the same way with Grainger's widow. Thus does England maintain her proud position in the van of educated nations. She still holds meetings which denounce with self righteous indignation the lawless treatment of murderers by American mobs. No protest has yet been heard against such tortures and tragedies as I have described, and which the law of England approves, if it does not prescribe.—New York Sun's London Letter.

FUSION AND CONFUSION

Democrats and Populists Mix Up.

THE BOSSES HAVE THEIR WAY

Disgusted Members of Both Parties Say They Prefer the Straight Republican Ticket.

The city Democratic convention met in Kutner hall yesterday afternoon to put up a ticket. The delegates had not all taken their seats in the convention before it became apparent to the most casual observer that the reports and rumors of fusion which had been going the rounds were well founded. The arrangements had evidently all been made by the leaders of both parties, the only details necessary were the adoption of this plan by the convention. The Democratic wireworkers were visibly uneasy for fear the rank and file might not take kindly to the idea of the old and solid Democratic party making an alliance with a new and untried organization, thereby confessing that it can no longer fight its political battles alone. Thus, with considerable anxiety, the convention met for business.

Judge George B. Graham, as chairman of the city central committee, called the convention to order. T. C. White for chairman, and L. W. Moultrie for secretary, were chosen by acclamation, and a roll call of the delegates followed. W. D. Grady then moved that the delegates from Roberts precinct be admitted as members of the convention, provided there was no "feud" among them. After a short pause, and no "feud" having manifested itself, the motion was passed.

THE FLAG OF TRUCE.

The preliminaries having now been disposed of, Thomas H. Bates came in with a flag of truce, announcing that it was the wish of both sides that the war hitherto waged between Populists and Democrats cease, and that they unite their forces in a common cause against the victorious Republicans. This flag of truce was a series of whereases and resolutions, prepared by a joint committee of Democrats and Populists, from the city central committee of each party. It recited the growing strength of the Republican, how they had captured office after office, routing the Populists and Democrats, "horse, foot and dragoons," and were still moving with increasing strength toward other victories, and the only hope of checking them was for the Democrats and Populists to bury the tomahawks with which they hacked each other in the past, and unite against the Republicans. The reading of this confession of the weakness of the two parties, and especially the Democrats, was listened to with cheers by some and with downcast eyes by others who could not help thinking, no doubt, "O what a fall, my countrymen."

This document recommending fusion was signed, for the Democrats, by George B. Graham, O. M. Thompson, Herman Levy, James K. Hopkins, B. T. Alford, John McMullin and J. M. Collier; and for the Populists by H. C. Warner, W. D. Bowen, F. Knobloch, G. L. Long, A. Eastabrooks, J. S. McKay and C. G. Sayle.

"POPULISTS SHOULD HAVE SOMETHING."

The secretary had scarcely finished reading the fusion document when W. D. Grady was on his feet. It will be remembered that he it was whose voice rang so loud and clear from the secret caucus room in the Fiske block, declaring over and over again that "the Populists should have something." He was on the floor of the convention to advocate the same doctrine. His voice was for fusion, and he moved that the convention appoint a committee of five to meet a like committee, already appointed by the Populists, to arrange a division of the offices. It was plainly seen that everything had been arranged for the deal by the leaders, and the question was whether the convention would stand it.

A half suppressed murmur of disapproval was heard, but no voice came out against fusion. There was a wrangle over the manner of appointing the committee to confer with the Populists, and whether this committee should have power to close the bargain, or whether it should simply see what bargain could be struck with the Populists and report back to the convention for further instructions.

E. D. Edwards, W. D. Grady, George E. Church and Herman Levy had it up and down. First one would disagree, then take it all back. Another would offer a motion or an amendment; then withdraw it; and finally no two of them saw the matter the same. Grady said the Populists had come down the road half way to meet the Democrats, and the Democrats ought to go up the road and strike glad hands with them.

CHURCH GOES ONE BETTER.

This was exactly what George E. Church was going to say, and when he got a chance he added a little to it, and said that, if they would meet the Populists half way, they might win back some of the erring children of Democracy who had strayed away from the fold and had been grazing on the barren pastures of Populism. This did not seem to please some of the Populists who were sitting in a row along the western side of the hall, watching the proceedings. But Mr. Church did not stop here. He hit them another lick, and a pretty hard one, and in a tender place. "The Populists," said he, "are abandoning their visionary schemes and vague ideas, and are coming over to the principles of Democracy. There is no reason why we should not get our men back who have gone over to that party."

At this time the Populist visitors began to look at one another, and no doubt wondered what sort of a fusion it was to be when one of the first things discussed in the Democratic convention was how to get back from the Populists those members who had gone over from the Democrats.

STILL ANOTHER THRUST.

But Mr. Church was not through yet. His speech was a short one, but it was bristling with porcupine quills for the Populists. It was perhaps one of the strangest fusion speeches ever made. The whole tone and tenor was how to get back the Democrats who had joined the Populists. "The Populist platform adopted at St. Louis," continued Mr. Church, "was written by one of the soundest Democrats. The members of that party will soon be back on their old ground."

A SHARP TURN.

George L. Hood brought matters up with a sharp turn. The discussion had been wandering. The desire to get Democrats back in the fold had been so absorbing that the original question had been lost sight of. The question was, should the committee of five to be appointed to confer with a like committee from the Populists, have power to close the fusion negotiations, or should they only receive proposals from the Populists, and then report back to the convention.

George L. Hood was in favor of the latter method, and made a vigorous speech on it. He did not propose to delegate the powers of the convention to any committee. He believed in having a voice in the matter. Nobody knew, said he, what sort of schemes the Populists might palm off on the committee, and he did not propose to bind himself and the convention hand and foot to accept the result unless it suited.

AFRAID OF TRAPS.

E. D. Edwards was on his feet before Mr. Hood had finished, and was ready to side with Hood. Democratic "harmony" began to come to the front in various quarters. "Grady says we can sweep the city," exclaimed Mr. Edwards, bringing his fist down upon an imaginary table by way of emphasis. "Yes, we can sweep the town if we all go in and vote the Populist ticket. The Democrats should not go blindly; they should not walk into a trap set by wily politicians. We do not know what sorts of jobs the Populists have put up. For the last week they have been holding secret sessions to which the Democrats were not admitted. We don't know what they have been doing, and I, for one, am opposed to walking into a trap with my eyes shut."

JUDGE GRAHAM EXPLAINS.

Mr. Edwards' speech seemed to get pretty close home to some members of the convention, and Judge Graham arose to explain that if the Populists or anybody else had been setting traps or putting up jobs he knew nothing of it.

E. F. Bernhard was the peacemaker. His speech was conservative. While he was not prepared to say fusion would be a good thing, yet, if it was to be undertaken at all, it was necessary to go about it in a business like way.

WHAT DID GRADY SAY?

Just here W. D. Grady ran across the hall and whispered a few words in George L. Hood's ear, and ran back to his seat. It was wonderful how quick the whole thing was fixed. The vehement Democrats, which but a few moments before had been ready to get into each other's hair, sank one by one into their seats, and all was as calm as a sunrise among the Andes. What did Grady say? No one guessed, but inasmuch as he was known to hold to the doctrine that the "Populist should have something," it is inferred that he gave the tip which restored order.

The matter was settled: The chairman appointed the committee of five to meet the like committee from the Populist, and, strange as it may seem, this committee was given full and unlimited power to make any deal they saw fit, and the Democratic convention pledged itself to stand by the decision.

JUDGE CRICHTON'S CARD.

During the whole proceedings up to this time Judge Crichton had not spoken a word, had not seemed to be paying any special attention to what was going on; but he knew what he was there for, and when the moment came he threw in a card which swept the table. It was the dextrous hand of a politician, and it was done so quietly and with so little ado that he took the trick before the old weatherbeaten politicians of forty campaigns realized that a move had been made.

Judge Crichton's motion was that a majority of this committee of five was to bind the action of the committee. In other words, the entire city convention delegated its powers, without question or reserve, to three men. As some of the members remarked, when it had dawned on them what had been done, they might as well go home, as the three men on the committee had everything in their own hands. It was no blunder, or chance. It was a shrewd play of the politicians.

The committee of five was then appointed to meet the Populists. The people of Fresno may have heard the names of some of these committeemen before in political matters. They were George L. Hood, W. D. Grady, B. T. Alford, John McMullin and George E. Church. It was arranged that W. S. Badger, from Roberts precinct, should be added to the committee to take action in school matters only.

A committee on permanent organization and order of business was then appointed as follows: E. D. Edwards, Gillum Baley, Herman Levy, G. B. Graham and Sam Ralston.

An adjournment was then taken till 7 p.m. to give the committee a chance to meet the Populist committee and fix the ticket.

EVENING SESSION.

The members of the convention came together promptly, just as if the committee would leave anything for the convention to do. The report was current that the arrangement made by the joint committee, in accordance with a previous agreement, was that the Democrats were to have four candidates and the Populists three. The Democrats were to have the marshal, the Populists the recorder, the Democrats two city trustees and the Populists the next choice.

When the convention was called to order, the report of the committee was called for the first thing. Mr. McMullin stated that George E. Church was spokesman for the Democrats, and as he had not yet arrived, there was a delay of a few minutes. The report of the committee on order of business was read and adopted in the meantime.

THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

By this time the committee of five who had been to see the Populists came in, and the report was read. It gave the Democrats the trustees in the First and Third wards, the school trustee in the corporate limits of the city, the treasurer, the city attorney, the marshalship, and one half the appointive offices, and the choice ones.

The storm broke. The gathering clouds had not gathered for nothing. George L. Hood came to his feet with his fists clinched and fire in his eye, and lost no time in stating what he was on his feet for. "I am not a party to that deal," said he. "The Democrats have given away everything. I am a Democrat, I hope—"

"Point of order," exclaimed George E. Church, rising to his feet. Grady was also up on a point of order, and after a wrangle of words Mr. Hood proceeded, and his speech was about the hottest shot the fusionists had yet received. He was a member of the committee which had been visiting the Populist committee, and he gave away some of the inside workings of that conference. "I move," continued Mr. Hood, "that this convention proceed to rescind its action in appointing that committee."

Grady was on his feet in a second, and glancing angrily at Mr. Hood, said that the convention was not a body of children, doing a thing one minute and taking the back track the next minute, pledging itself to abide by the action of the committee one minute and the next rescinding the action, just because some friend of somebody happened to be dropped. "Did this convention send us to that conference to make fools of us, for G—— sake? Somebody had to get left. It is a hard thing sometimes to be thrown overboard. I know, for I have been there often enough."

GRADY WAS SACRIFICED.

"I was sacrificed in that conference," continued Grady. "I just as good as had the nomination for trustee from my ward. I went to the polls and worked, and got my delegates, and considered I was as good as nominated. But when I got into that conference they said to me, 'See here, Grady, you are so fond of harmony and party sacrifice, suppose you help harmony along by getting out of the trustee race;' and out I got."

Then he scored Hood awhile, and finally took up the task of explaining how they had got away with the Populists at the conference. By the arrangement the Populists would have to stand in and help elect the Democratic trustees or they could not hope to get the recordership, which had been conceded to them. Grady thought this was a fine stroke of policy and would compel the Populists to stand in and help elect the trustees.

FAMILY SECRETS.

The feeling ran so high by this time that peace was despaired of. Mr. Hood felt that he ought to tell what he knew, for the good of the party. These little scraps of family history often are very interesting reading, and some of it was now about to be given the public.

"The Populists took just what they wanted," said Mr. Hood. "They came into that conference and demanded what they wanted, and they got it. If they had not been granted all they asked, they would have kicked the whole thing over. They were there for that purpose. A Populist on their conference committee was a candidate for recorder, and rather than not have his way he would have upset everything. I am sorry to say that some of the Democratic committeemen played right into the hands of the Populists. Why, Mr. Chairman, one of the Democrats on your committee said rather than let the Republicans have a single officer, he would give everything to the Populists."

Up came Grady again on a point of order, and said that Hood was giving away the secrets of the conference.

"Grady is out of order himself," exclaimed E. D. Edwards, addressing the chair.

Grady looked around in a puzzled way, and slowly took his seat, while Hood straightened himself, and proceed to tell why the fusion plan should be voted down and utterly relegated to the "dream of things that were."

CAPTURED BY POPULISTS.

"I told the conference committee when I found what kind of a job was being put up on us by the Populists that the best thing we could do was to come back to the convention and recommend that the whole Democratic convention go over and join the Populist convention.

"I tell you, if this fusion scheme is adopted, as it has been forced upon us, it will cost us more Democratic votes than there are Populist votes in the city. Let us be Democrats in times of discouragement as well as when all is serene. If you adopt the report of that conference committee, it will take the fire out of Democrats. I tell you that ticket can not win. I have heard many Democrats say, and they are as good as any in the city, that rather than support such a ticket as this which the Populists are trying to force upon us, they will vote the Republican ticket from top to bottom. Our ship will go to pieces. I warn you and beseech you to rescind your action of appointing this conference committee, and come out and be Democrats, fight the battle of Democracy and go to victory, or meet defeat upon the platform which has been our stay and our pride in the past."

GRADY'S DEFIANCE.

As Hood went down, Grady came up, and had proceeded half a dozen syllables on a Phillipic which he was launching at Hood, intending it to equal any effort of Phocion or Demosthenese, when Chairman White reminded him that his voice had already been heard a few times on the subject.

"I guess I can speak again if I want to," replied Grady defiantly, and without waiting for any further orders or suggestions, he proceeded to roast Hood.

This matter had by this time begun to grow wearisome, and after the spice had lost its spiciness, the members of the convention showed that they were tired and would be glad for a chance to rest.

THE NOMINATIONS.

After the convention settled down to business the work was soon done. The vote on the motion to rescind the action in appointing the conference committee—really the question whether there should or should not be fusion—was in favor of standing by the former action by a small majority. The vote showed that nearly half the convention was not in favor of fusion.

W. H. McKenzie, nominated by Herman Levy, for treasurer was nominated by acclamation.

Then came the fight for marshal. Judge Gillam Baley nominated J. W. Coffman; E. D. Edwards nominated Am S. Hays; Mr. Storer nominated D. Dismukes. The vote stood, Coffman 34, Hays 27, Dismukes 5, Mr. Coffman being the nominee.

L. W. Moultrie was nominated by acclamation for city attorney.

W. F. McVey was made the nominee for city trustee from the First ward and F. M. Chittenden from the Third ward.

The nomination for school trustee was a little more animated. It had been quietly announced, not publicly in the convention, that George E. Church would feel complimented if nominated to succeed himself. It was done without opposition. T. C. White had been placed in nomination, but declined. He said the only office he might be induced to accept was the city trusteeship from the Third ward.

A committee, consisting of George E. Church, George B. Graham and Herman Levy, was appointed to carry the news to the Populist convention of what the Democrats had done. This committee soon returned, and reported that the Populists had indorsed the Democratic nominees.

Seven members of the city central committee were then appointed, one from each ward and two at large. They were W. D. Crichton, W. T. Porter, Dante R. Prince, Dan Brown, Sam Ralston, J. J. White and J. L. Maupin.

An auditing committee was appointed, consisting of John McMullin, O. M. Thompson, E. D. Edwards, R. L. Peeler and Wick B. Parsons.

The chairman announced that a debt of $34.25 had been incurred, and on motion of Grady each nominee was assessed $5, with which to pay it.

The city central committee was empowered to fill any vacancies that might occur on the ticket.

THE LAST ACT.

By this time a committee from the Populist convention had arrived with the names of the men nominated there, and after the names had been read Grady moved that the convention "ratify the whole ticket, from top to bottom, Populists and all." There was a dead silence, and after waiting like Mark Antony for reply and getting none, Mr. Grady repeated his motion, and it being seconded, it was passed by a about a dozen votes, there being none in the negative. It was a ratification, but a slim one. The smallness of the vote was due to the fact that more than half the delegates had gone home, and the other half did not manifest much interest, and no enthusiasm at all.

Thus ended the Democratic part of the fusion convention. The Populists, in the mean time had been having a political picnic of their own, the proceedings of which will be found below.

THE POPULISTS MEET.

Their Part of the Day's Political Program.

The proceedings at the Populist convention were opened at 2 p.m. by the election of S. Tombs as temporary chairman, and G. P. Cummings as temporary secretary. The new chairman, wearing a geranium bloom in the lappel of his coat, walked triumphantly to his place of honor. The Fifth ward had planned and carried out its little surprise in the most skillful manner, and a few of the old stagers who had heard of the "coup" early in the morning indulged in a smile and a wink as they murmured, "I told you so."

On motion of W. M. Williams the following were appointed a committee of five to confer with a like committee of the Democracy in view of a fusion movement: W. M. Williams, F. Knobloch, J. W. Reese, A. Eastabrooks, G. P. Cummings.

F. Knobloch presented a memorial accusing the newly elected Republican county officers of various "high crimes and misdemornors," particularly violation of campaign pledges in regard to economy, and of recklessly creating new offices and increasing the number of deputyships. The memorial declared that the only way of averting a similar catastrophe in the new city government is to place it in the hands of the Democrats and Populists, both of which parties are traditionally averse to any raids on the treasury, and are inspired by the spirit of patriotism in its purest form. The memorial was signed by H. C. Warner, W. D. Bowen, F. Knobloch, A. Eastabrooks, G. D. Long, J. S. McKay and C. G. Sayle on behalf of the People's Party; and by G. B. Graham, G. M. Thompson, Herman Levy, B. T. Alford, John McMullin, James K. Hopkins and J. M. Collier on behalf of the Democracy.

A recess of one hour was taken to enable the conference committee to meet the Democratic committee. At the end of the hour a brief report was made, from which it appeared that the Democracy had made satisfactory concessions, and an adjournment was had till 7 p.m.

The majority of the Populist delegates seemed well pleased and contented when the convention resumed business and the conference report was read. It stated that the committee recommended the acceptance of the following offer: Populists to have the city trustee from the Fourth ward, the school trustee from Roberts precinct, city recorder, city clerk, city assessor and one-half the appointive offices—the Democrats to have first choice.

The report was adopted without dissent, as was that of the committee on platform and resolutions. It was a brief affair, demanding municipal ownership of water works and an equitable assessment of corporations.

Nominations were declared to be in order, and J. W. Reese nominated G. P. Cummings for recorder. Robinson nominated W. H. Cureton This was the signal for a storm and the storm came promptly.

Cureton strode to the chairman's table and without the slightest hesitation delivered himself of the following arraignment of certain Populists who had conspired to make his nomination impossible. He said: "I claim the right to make a few remarks before respectfully taking my name from the list of candidates for this important office. I claim this right because I am conscious of an upright disposition; conscious that since I have submitted my name to the Populists of the city for this office I have not been running around the street telling flat and infamous lies about other gentlemen as has been done about me. I doubt not that the men who uttered these lies are listening to me now, and if not, let me say if they have gold in their pockets and are not in debt, I am in debt and a poor man, but I stand as high above them as the sun above this little globe of ours

"An infamous lie," continued the speaker amid a profound silence, "came to me through Mr. Warner, that I made a statement that if I did not get the nomination for this office I would do all I could to break up the People's Party."

After dwelling on his work at the late county election and the large vote given him, Cureton concluded:

"One of the men most conspicuous in this effort to defeat me in this fight is a man who got 150 votes less in the city than I did. He has been going around this city telling people I could not be elected if I was nominated.

"I don't want your nomination, gentlemen, at the expense of my manhood. I am not in the fight against you, Mr. Cummings; you can have the field to yourself."

With this Cureton strode angrily down the hall and shortly after left the convention. The business then proceeded and Cummings was nominated as recorder by acclamation.

W. B. Bowen and W. M. Williams were nominated for city clerk. Williams withdrew, and Bowen was nominated by acclamation. Williams was rewarded with the nomination for city assessor, but had to stand two ballots against Chairman Tombs. In the first ballot each received 22 votes; in the second Williams received 32 to 12 for Tombs, and was declared the choice of the convention.

For school trustee in Roberts precinct O. B. Oluffs was nominated by acclamation. So was A. Eastabrooks for city trustee from the Fourth ward.

This concluded the list, and Judge Sayle caused a laugh by asking if there was nothing left, as he would like something himself.

The Democratic nominees on the joint ticket were announced by Judge Graham and approved by the convention on motion of M. Farley.

On motion of H. C. Warner all candidates on the ticket were assessed $5 each for expenses.

The convention adjourned after the following committees had been appointed: Auditing—H. N. Cook, M. Farley, Dr. Long, Tim Walton, D. C. Tucker. Central committee—W. H. Cureton, F. Knobloch, J. W. Reese, O. M. McKay, S. E. Johnson, Tim Walton, C. G. Sayle.

SUIT FOR ACCOUNTING.

Sixty-three Thousand Dollars Alleged to be Due.

In the office of the county clerk yesterday suit was brought by Edward Von Schmidt against Alfred W. Von Schmidt for an accounting. The complaint sets forth that Alexey W. Von Schmidt bought a vineyard of 160 acres from George Eggers. It was deeded to the defendant in trust. After that Alexey W. Von Schmidt expended $77,315.50 in improvements, and never received in return more than $13,823.08, leaving a balance due of $63,938.83.

The plaintiff says that Alexey W. Von Schmidt's interest has been transferred to him, and that Alfred W. Von Schmidt has ousted him from possession and enjoyment of the property. Hence the suit.

The Tug of War

Is a trial of muscle. Our porous plasters can be pulled off, certainly, but they stick fast enough for all practical purposes, for all that. They have afforded most welcome relief in a multitude of cases. Without them it is not pleasant to consider what many might suffer. So often needed, and so indispensably necessary when they are wanted, a supply of our porous plasters should always be kept at hand for use in case of an emergency. The price is only 25 cents each. We also have a full line of other plasters. Experience has demonstrated their superior value. Just note, too, that our drug and prescription department is excelled nowhere.

THE POLLASKY HOUSE

IT MAY BE GIVEN FOR AN ORPHANAGE.

Letter From C. P. Huntington on the Subject—The Lone Star Benefit.

The following letter from C. P. Huntington, dated New York, February 16th, is in reply to one addressed to him by the members of the Fresno Orphans' Home Association. It is as follows:

Your letter of January 22d was duly received, but I have been ill recently, and business took me out of the city as soon as I recovered my health—in fact, a little before—and from this trip I have only returned.

I note all you say about the "Marcus Pollasky" residence in Fresno, and your request with regard to its transfer to the association for the benefit of the orphans.

In reply permit me to say that the property does not belong to me individually, but either to the Southern Pacific Company or the Pacific Improvement Company. I am inclined to think at this time that I should recommend their transferring it for the purpose you name, provided that no race or creed should be discriminated against, and I think the company which owns it would transfer the title to the town, or society, or such party or parties as the managers should recommend; although they might not be disposed to do it, as we have made no money for the last two or three years and are all feeling pretty poor; but the poor we always have with us, and in some way they must be provided for. Yours truly,

C. P. HUNTINGTON.

The officers of the association will reply, thanking Mr. Huntington for his kindly interest in the matter.

Mrs. A. E. Elliott has transferred to the association $30.35, the proceeds of the Lone Star entertainment for the benefit of the orphans.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

HER OTHER SIDE.

Extremely Radical Sentiments Charged to Hetty Green.

She is a motherly soul, this Mrs. Hetty Green. She has a good, kind heart, even if she is the richest woman in America.

She has a tendency to distrust people on first acquaintance, but when one gets to know her she is a cheery creature, and her worn face brightens up, her eyes glisten, and she talks vivaciously.

She has a weakness for children and is always trying, and trying with success, to make friends of them.

The people who know her well, and it is significant that a great many poor people know her well, will tell you that Hetty Green is eccentric and whimsical, but that, after all, they like her. She is interesting.

Even a person who did not know who she was would bestow a second glance upon this unfashionably clad and often shabby woman if she passed by in a crowd.

"The poor have no chance in this country. No wonder anarchists and socialists are so numerous. The longer we live the more discontented we all get, and no wonder too. Some blame the rich, but all the rich are not to blame."

Thus spoke Mrs. Green when the Brooklyn strike was at its height. It was a general conversation, and she was taking her share in it. The talk had drifted from the particulars of the case to the generalities it involved, and Mrs. Green was more radical than any one.

"But the law must be upheld," remarked one.

"The law must be upheld, must it?" repeated the woman of millions scornfully. "Then why don't they begin at the right end? Who begins to break the law? The great railroad magnates. There is Huntington. He and his railroads and the men about him have been grinding wealth out of the poor for years and years and defying the authorities. But the militia are never sent against him. When some poor starving fellows get desperate and cars don't run, how quickly they send the troops! I will say, though, that the boys in the militia are not to blame. Their sympathies are always with the strikers. But what can they do? They must obey orders."

"How would you remedy these things?"

"How? Make these railroad magnates obey the law or put them in prison. Let the poor man break the law and see how soon he gets into jail."—Boston Herald.

A NOTABLE KENTUCKIAN.

Extraordinary Obituary Tribute to the Late Alamander Martin of Lackey.

Died, at the home of his brother, near this place, on Jan. 16, Almmander Martin, in the seventy-ninth year of his age. He was born in Ohio. Came with his parents to Kentucky at an early age. He was well beloved by all who know him. He was a model in the way of economy, industry and honesty. His voice will no more be heard by his many relatives whom he so much loved and so faithfully served during sickness. We will greatly miss him, but pray the Lord to reconcile us to this sad bereavement, knowing that our loss in his eternal gain. His funeral services were attended by the Rev. William Cook, and a sermon was preached from the book of God, after which a large concourse of people followed his remains to their last resting place until called forth on the resurrection morn. The following is a short sketch of his life:

During Mr. Martin's early life
The country was full of witches,
He carried a gun and butcher knife
And wore the leather breeches.

But as time advanced
He changed his pants,
Yet still preferred the leather.
He would often tell
The way they would smell
In time of rainy weather.

He was a man of iron nerve,
A voice loud and piercing.
His head was gray, his spine curved,
Before he quit his cursing.

His latter days were days of peace,
A change in disposition.
As strength gave way grace increased
And saved him from perdition.

Now he sails on Zion's ship,
No more pains from his poor old hip.
He is done with troubles here below
And gone where all good mortals go.

Climb of the Pencil.

A new fashion that is just beginning to grow in vogue is that of writing letters in pencil rather than with pen and ink, and when once fairly established it is doubtful whether anything but legal documents and business papers that must be preserved will ever be prepared in the old style. Letters are generally shorter nowadays than they formerly were and more hastily written, more frequent and seldom worth keeping for any length of time. They are not the elaborate efforts of bygone days, that were often cherished for their intrinsic worth. The pencil, which is far more convenient than the pen, is therefore taking its place in the great mass of casual correspondence. — Kansas City Times.

The Poor Profited.

A novel scheme to provide bread for the poor was recently successfully tested in Flint, Mich. There were 150 competitors among the ladies of the city to see who could bake the best loaf, each contestant to make three loaves, the winner to receive a valuable prize and the bread to be given to the poor. The winner of the contest was the wife of the mayor.

A Very Popular Loan.

"It's all very well to talk about issuing bonds of $10 each," remarked Mr. Dukane, "but that is not the way to induce women to buy."

"What would you advise?" asked Mr. Gaswell.

"Let Secretary Carlisle advertise the bonds at $9.98, marked down from $10."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

There has been a movement on foot for some weeks among retail and wholesale fish dealers to stop the illegal sale of trout, which is being made in this city. The law does not go out before April 15, and for weeks trout has been brought to commission merchants in boxes marked smelts or frost fish. These are sold to epicures, who will pay almost any price for things out of season. The dealers complain that when the trout season opens, and dealers display their fish, the wealthier classes will not buy, having tired of these delicacies. Thus does this illegal traffic interfere with legitimate business. It is also stated that a large trout order can be filled with two days' notice, and that they are brought from the New England states.—New York Herald.

They Bore Du Maurier.

The "Trilby" craze has had no funnier outcome than the desire of girls in all parts of the world who think they resemble Du Maurier's heroine to communicate with the author. Mr. du Maurier has received a large number of photographs from young women in this and other countries asking him if, in his opinion, they resemble the real "Trilby."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Amusements.

Shaw and Craig's Comedians will open at the Barton opera house next Monday night in Farmer Stebbins. The following is from the Visalia Times:

Shaw & Craig's Comedians captured Visalia the first night. Farmer Stebbins kept the crowd that packed Armory hall last evening in an uproar of laughter from start to finish. The old farmer had the interest and attention of everybody. The part was played to perfection by Sam T. Shaw, the leading man. Mr. Shaw's efforts to please were rewarded by the liberal applause that followed him throughout the play.

There is just enough tragedy in the plot to sustain the interest while the singing by Miss Jessie Shirley, the stage-struck niece of Silas Stebbins, adds variety and secures the appreciation of the audience. Her darky song "Alabama Coon," given last night had not been heard in Visalia before.

Bar Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the members of the Fresno Bar in courtroom of Department 2, February 27, 1895, at 10 o'clock a.m., to take appropriate action on the death of Col. Harry I. Thornton. All attorneys invited.

Always Keep to the Right.

The polite dodging that some times occurs between passers in a narrow passage was happily solved once by a tall, ungraceful, bulky Vermonter, who extricated both from the position by saying, "If you will stand still, madam, I will go home." Joseph Ritchie of Roxbury used to tell an experience of his in the days when ladies' gowns trailed on sidewalks and in street cars, and their tempers flashed out if anybody trod upon them. Looking straight at the flushed cheeks and wrinkled forehead, "I excuse you, ma'am," said Mr. Ritchie, with old school politeness.—Boston Transcript.

The Sea Galley.

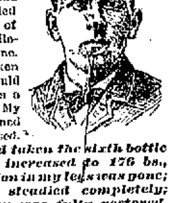

The sea galley in tropical seas is very dangerous to bathers. One of these creatures fastened to the body causes a pain so intense that swimmers have been known to faint ere they could reach the shore. The pain has been compared to that of a very acute attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

"About one year ago I was afflicted with nervousness, sleeplessness, Creeping sensation in my legs, Slight palpitation of my heart, Distracting confusion of the mind, Serious loss or lapse of memory. Weighted down with care and worry. I completely lost appetite And felt my vitality wearing out, I was weak, irritable and tired, My weight was reduced to 160 lbs., In fact I was no good, on earth.

A friend brought me Dr. Miles' book, "New and Startling Facts," and I finally decided to try a bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Before I had taken one bottle I could sleep as well as a 10-yr.-old boy. My appetite returned greatly increased.

When I had taken the sixth bottle My weight increased to 176 lbs., The sensation in my legs was gone; My nerves steadied completely; My memory was fully restored. My brain seemed clearer than ever. In the Superior court of the state of California, in and for the county of Fresno.

Thomas Wootton, plaintiff, vs W. A. Sanders, Albert Gilbert Sanders, John Knausch, Milton O. Abbott and R. L. Graves, defendants named in plaintiff's complaint herein, and G. A. Everts, public administrator of the county of Fresno, and appointed administrator of the estate of William Wootton, deceased, and William Wootton, defendants under this cross-complaint, defendants.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA send greeting to John Knausch, Milton O. Abbott and R. L. Graves, defendants named in plaintiff's complaint herein, and G. A. Everts, public administrator of the county of Fresno, and appointed administrator of the estate of William Wootton, alleged to be deceased, and William Wootton, defendant's under the cross complaint of W. A. Sanders and Albert Gilbert Sanders (suing by his guardian ad litem, G. C. Freman herein), defendants under the cross complaint of the said W. A. Sanders, and said minor by his said guardian, and the said Thomas Wootton, plaintiff in said action.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought by Thomas Wootton in the Superior court of the county of Fresno, State of California, and also you are hereby required to appear and defend in and against the action brought against you by the above named W. A. Sanders and Albert Gilbert Sanders, a minor (suing in said action by his guardian ad litem, G. C. Freman), and to answer the cross complaint of the said W. A. Sanders and said minor filed in said action, on the 5th day of January, 1895, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the day of service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days.

The said action under said original complaint is brought to obtain a judgment, order and decree of this court that the plaintiff is the owner of the lands and premises described in plaintiff's amended complaint, on file in said action, and hereinafter described, and the whole thereof subject to administration, and that the defendants, and each of them, have no title, estate or interest or lien upon said premises in said amended complaint and hereinafter described, or any part thereof.

Said premises being described as follows: Situate, lying and being in the county of Fresno, state of California, to-wit:

The east half of section 1, township 15 south, range 21 east; the west half, southeast quarter and southwest quarter of northeast quarter of section 31; the southwest quarter of section 30; the south half, south half of northwest quarter, northeast quarter of the northwest quarter, south half of northeast quarter and the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 32; the west half and the west half of the east half of section 3; all of section 29; east half of southwest quarter, west half of southeast quarter, southeast quarter of northwest quarter and southwest quarter of northeast quarter of section 20; the west half of section 21, all in township 14 south, [illegible] east; and the southwest quarter of section 34, in township 13 south, of range 25 east, all of said lands being of Mount Diablo base and meridian.

Also the following described lands, situate, lying and being in the county of Tulare, state of California, to wit:

The northwest quarter and the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 5, in township 15 south of range 25 east; the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter and the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 26, township 15 south, range 25 east, all of said lands being of Mount Diablo base and meridian.

And in said original complaint judgment is sought that the said William Wootton, at the time of his death, was the owner and in possession of the above described premises, and that plaintiff is the owner thereof as a devisee of the said William Wootton, and that the several papers, writings, instruments, described in said amended complaint and of record in the office of the county recorder of the county of Fresno and of the said county of Tulare affecting said property are null and void, and are false and fictitious, all of which more fully appears by said amended complaint on file in this action, reference to which is made for further particulars; and the said W. A. Sanders and the said Albert Gilbert Sanders, a minor, (suing in said action by his guardian ad litem, G. C. Freman) have filed a cross-complaint in said action under which you, the said persons above named, are made parties defendant and sued, which said cross-complaint was filed by order and permission of the court on the 5th day of January, 1895, and in and by said cross-complaint it is set forth and alleged in substance that it was understood and agreed that the said Knausch would purchase of the said Wootton the lands and premises above described for the sum of $15,000, together with the personal property thereon, and that he would convey certain of the said lands to the said W. A. Sanders or to the said A. G. Sanders, a minor, for said W. A. Sanders, in consideration of which the said W. A. Sanders would execute a mortgage to him for the sum of $5,000, and also would convey to him, the said Knausch, the following described lands, situated in the County of Fresno, State of California, and particularly described as follows to wit: the west half of the northwest quarter and the south half of the southwest quarter of section 36 Township 15 south, range 21 east of M. D. B. and M., containing 175 acres of land; and it is alleged in said cross-complaint that said conveyance and mortgages were made to the persons above named respectively as agreed, and that an agreement was entered into between the said Wootton, and the said Knausch, and the said Graves and the said W. A. Sanders, and the said minor, A. G. Sanders, whereby section 29 above referred to was to be planted to oranges, lemons and citrus fruits, and water was to be bored for and developed upon said lands, and the same was to be improved and rendered valuable.

It is further alleged that since the execution of said several papers and the consummation and execution of said agreement that the said defendants, Wootton, Knausch and Graves have wholly abandoned the same, and have wholly failed and refused to carry out the same as upon their part agreed, or to do or perform any part thereof, and that they have wholly abandoned the same, and that thereby the consideration of the said W. A. Sanders and the said minor, A. G. Sanders, have wholly failed, and that they have offered to and are ready and willing to convey to the said Wootton, Knausch and Graves all and everything by them received from them, and to transfer, release and redeliver to them everything received from them, and to fully relinquish, abandon and rescind said contract, transaction or agreement, and in said cross complaint they offer so to do. And the said cross complaint having been filed in said action, and the persons above named being either defendants under said complaint, or by order of the court made defendants under said cross-complaint, reference to said cross-complaint is hereby made for further particulars and the same is hereby made a part of this summons, and you are hereby referred to the same for further particulars.

The said cross-complainants pray for general relief in their said cross-complaint, and this summons being issued under and upon the filing of said cross-complaint and in pursuance of an order of the Court making you, and each of you parties defendant under said cross-complaint and directing that summons be issued and served upon you, and each of you; you are, therefore, and hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said cross-complaint as above required, the said cross-complainants, to-wit: the said W. A. Sanders and A. G. Sanders, a minor (suing herein by his guardian ad litem, G. C. Freman), will apply to the court for the relief demanded in his said cross-complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the county of Fresno, state of California, this 5th day of January, 1895.
